Yawn! It's been banned in Scotland for a while now. Strange then that 'all' of the Scottish Hunts are still going strong and the number of foxes killed has er, doubled.

No doubt the English ban will also turn out to be such a resounding success.
What a pity that your pointless campaign has resulted in twice the suffering for the very creatures that you are, supposedly, trying to protect. You and your like sir, are not animal lovers, merely agitators.
