

Re: DO WE REALLY NEED A FAQ..????

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.agriculture.poultry/2005-02/0171.html>

From: Mary Fisher (mary.fisher_at_zetnet.co.uk)

Date: 02/15/05

Date: Tue, 15 Feb 2005 21:51:13 -0000

"SHIVER ME TIMBERS" <shiver@me_timbers.com> wrote in message
news:150220051323592819%

>

> Is a FAQ really necessary..... and why.

...

> A FAQ usually falls into two parts.....

>

> One – Those helpful Q & A's like how to deal with mites.

>

> Two – Posting guidelines. What is acceptable what is not acceptable.

>

> Let's take a look at just a few possible posting guidelines.

>

> No posting in HTML.... >

> No binary attachments... >

> Trim your posts when replying... >

> No SIG file adverts for commercial ventures.

...

I'd say no posts from people who don't use real names. We're a friendly group and don't need to hide.

>

>

> Jill without question you are the best thing this newsgroup has got > going for it. Your helpfulness over the years is beyond question.

Hurrah!

But I'd also like people to use their spellchecker!

>

I'd vote against a FAQ because in my experience very few people ever look at them and when you're dealing with animals there are also different solutions to different questions anyway. They're a waste of bandwidth and, especially, a waste of time for whoever looks after them.

sci.agriculture.poultry: Re: DO WE REALLY NEED A FAQ..????

Jill set up the MSN group and that's a really useful and interesting service but a FAQ's a different kettle of fish. Or eggs.

Mary

who doesn't mind being a bitch, saves someone else the bother :-)