

Re: Duck in shock and drooping neck

---

Source: <http://sci.tech--archive.net/Archive/sci.agriculture.poultry/2005-05/msg00066.html>

---

- From: "rick" <hawks44@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Sun, 22 May 2005 18:25:54 +1000
-

What sort of duck is it? Is it a male or female?

"Carlene" <scooooter2@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message news:428fcfbf\$0\$4656\$afc38c87@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx
>I had 2 ducks. One was taken by a fox 2 nights ago so we brought the other > one in the house as it was in shock. I didn't expect it to live through > the > night but it's still going today. He seems to move with encouragement but > usually just lays there with his head laying on the ground. When he does > stand, he doesn't have a lot of balance and his neck drops. It's like he > can't move his neck up but he doesn't seem to be in pain when we lift it > up.
> Any suggestions or could he still be in shock and this is all part of it?
>
>

-
- Follow-Ups:
    - ◆ **Re: Duck in shock and drooping neck**
◇ From: Carlene

- References:
  - ◆ **Duck in shock and drooping neck**
◇ From: Carlene

- Prev by Date: **chickens not laying**
- Next by Date: **Re: chickens not laying**
- Previous by thread: **Duck in shock and drooping neck**
- Next by thread: **Re: Duck in shock and drooping neck**
- Index(es):
  - ◆ **Date**
  - ◆ **Thread**