

Advice on worming please.

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.agriculture.poultry/2005-07/msg00149.html>

- From: "CaT" <catman@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Tue, 12 Jul 2005 09:35:42 GMT
-

Worming poultry seems to be a nightmare with conflicting advice on what to use, on-licence, off licence. eat eggs, don't eat the eggs, etc etc. Does anyone here have any difinitive advice on what to use. My father in law uses Furexel, which contains Ivermectin for his pigeons. This is issued from a vet but because its off licence its at his own risk. He has had 30 years experience with his birds and is confident using this product. Can it be used on poultry? If so, at what dose. I did read that you can buy layers pellets with a wormer incorporated. I have used a "natural" powder in the past, but I can't remember what it was called and I am not really sure that it worked. My chickens seem healthy but they do free range in the garden so I want to stay on top of any problems. Any advice would be useful
Thanks

- Follow-Ups:
 - ◆ Re: Advice on worming please.
 - ◇ From: Jill.
- Prev by Date: Re: A FAQ
- Next by Date: Re: Advice on worming please.
- Previous by thread: Re: Have you ordered from
- Next by thread: Re: Advice on worming please.
- Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread