

Re: The Coming Pandemic

---

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.agriculture.poultry/2005-10/msg00154.html>

---

- From: " Jill." <news@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Thu, 20 Oct 2005 22:40:08 +0100
-

chris p wrote:

>, i love my flock of > chickens but if it looks like i need to ill kill them.

No you do not need to kill them at all
There is absolutely no reason to do so unless you are actually in a place where you have AI infected birds right now If you are in the US the chances of this virus getting into your migratory birds this year is probably infinitesimal Anywhere else in the world [ except SE Asia] the risk varies depending on where you are but the threat to our birds is only going to be around for the next 6 weeks
After that the migration will be done for another year. Any cases will be known and Hopefully the world leaders, movers and shakers will get down and dirty with the situation in SE Asia to get it sorted out before the endemic virus mutates in to a pandemic human virus and before we all have to go through this next year.
Enjoy your birds

—
regards
Jill Bowis AI news reports: <http://poultryreports.blogspot.com/>

Pure bred utility chickens and ducks
Housing; Equipment, Books, Videos, Gifts
Herbaceous; Herb and Alpine nursery
Working Holidays in Scotland
<http://www.kintaline.co.uk>

.

---

- References:
  - ◆ The Coming Pandemic
    - ◇ From: Tightwad
  - ◆ Re: The Coming Pandemic

Re: The Coming Pandemic

◇ From: Nicholas

◆ Re: The Coming Pandemic

◇ From: a . mullarkey2002

◆ Re: The Coming Pandemic

◇ From: chris p

- Prev by Date: Re: free range eggs – more nutritious
- Next by Date: Re: free range eggs – more nutritious
- Previous by thread: Re: The Coming Pandemic
- Next by thread: free range eggs – more nutritious
- Index(es):
  - ◆ Date
  - ◆ Thread