

Re: Information and Discussion on Geese

---

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.agriculture.poultry/2006-06/msg00162.html>

---

- From: " Jill" <news@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Thu, 15 Jun 2006 22:19:50 +0100
-

"diddy" <diddy@xxxxxxxx> wrote in message
<news:Xns97E39B3B21EA2diddydiddynet@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>

It just seems a bit disingenous to suggest other groups to a thriving group to which you are not a regular poster.

Yup – its the "come and play in my gang" mentality from preschool
Considering the attitude of some folks in the group, a few of whom would make Pam sound cutesy !!!, its not somewhere for the unwary.
Its fairly active and mostly fine but boy they can take folks on in a gang.
There is also some pretty poor advice and opinions sometimes which are not corrected -- like more recently :- All geese are aggressive" "should never let geese imprint on you" "its fine to keep geese on zero grazing with some dandelions thrown in"

--

regards
Jill Bowis

Pure bred utility chickens and ducks
Housing; Equipment, Books, Videos, Gifts
Herbaceous; Herb and Alpine nursery
Working Holidays in Scotland
<http://www.kintaline.co.uk>

.