

Re: Dorkings and ducks

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.agriculture.poultry/2006-06/msg00203.html>

- From: Ginny <glvl88REMOVETHIS@xxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Wed, 21 Jun 2006 17:30:33 +0800
-

BobD wrote:

We have 3 black Runners and they are the same way, very little swimming. I've been told by other breeds that this is common (one actual uses them for training their herding dogs). I actually find them more interesting just walking around the yard with the chickens.

I thought I had read it somewhere too, that runners don't require a lot of water which was one reason I went for them. They are also very cute and a change from muscovies and khaki campbells which I had years ago.

Ginny

.