

Re: blotchy shells

---

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.agriculture.poultry/2008-03/msg00160.html>

---

- From: rumblings <rumblingsDELETE@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Mon, 24 Mar 2008 19:58:16 +0000
-

eggbox wrote:

"Jill" <news@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message news:13uf2f8pj9p01aa@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx

Look at the reports of the meat bird eggs being sold.
They seem a bit confused as to what they are : Sasso are not the same thing as Cobb
And the feedback is listed in the description – as being from the brother-in-law's account but they do not seem to figure in the buyers lists.

This is interesting, I've had a closer look at these two sellers, lot's that don't add up there.
Look at this item number 160212763798, look at the bidding page, the seller abbeychooks is bidding for eggs they sell themselves, on an auction run by the seller nununini01 which uses text exactly the same as abbeychooks meat egg auctions. Not only this, but nununini01 leaves feedback for their buyers saying "Many thanks for buying fertile eggs from ABBEY CHOOKS Happy Hatching " . So who is who here? Both the same by my reckoning, and not only that, bidding on each others auctions.

I emailed abbeychooks – and here is the reply (or at least as much of it as I dare post):

I us