Why is it little unthinking minds can't accept the fact that if they wouldn't like their own behavior directed at themselves, that continuing to behave in such a manner is uncivilized?

Being civilized is treating other people as you yourself would like to be treated -- and that includes accepting responsibility for your actions in life. But it does not preclude that others should be forced out of existence because ill behaved mongrels can't accept that their behavior is uncivilized. Of course, then end result of incivility is just to kill that which you can not control or wish to control, dominate or own. And THAT is the ultimate in uncivilized behavior.
