Looks to me like we are both looking at the same picture, largely including details(AFA Nazi pseudo-religion, do look up Guido von List, who unfortunately seems to be a relative of mine). It took us to very different conclusions, yours seems to be that we shouldn't have invaded Iraq, but since we're there we may as well wipe 'em off the face of the earth. I can't accept that view, although I'm on the same page as you inre the real motive for this military action (the war is over-just ask W). I see no point in continuing, I am as unlikely to drop my live-and-let-live philosophy as you are to view any segment of muslim society as genuinely friendly to non-muslims.

oh well
