

Re: Hominid Fossils and Eustasy

Source: <http://sci.tech--archive.net/Archive/sci.anthropology.paleo/2005-10/msg00116.html>

- From: "Mario Petrinovich" <mario.petrinovic1@xxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Wed, 5 Oct 2005 16:42:19 +0200
-

Paul Crowley:

- > The effects of eustasy (world-wide changes in
- > sea-levels) on human/hominid and other fossils
- > have never been recognised.

Thanks Paul, very, very much. This info is what I needed.

I am telling you, we can sleep on the ground near to sea. Sea is big heat accumulator. I have a friend who lives in Los Angeles. There is very hot. But not close to the sea. Sea cools things. The same goes when it is cold out there, the sea warm things. Close to sea is where humans feel good. --- Mario

-
- Follow-Ups:
 - ◆ Re: Hominid Fossils and Eustasy
◇ From: Paul Crowley
 - ◆ Re: Hominid Fossils and Eustasy
◇ From: quercophile
 - References:
 - ◆ Hominid Fossils and Eustasy
◇ From: Paul Crowley
 - Prev by Date: Re: Misconceptions about Parsimony
 - Next by Date: Re: Hominid Fossils and Eustasy
 - Previous by thread: Hominid Fossils and Eustasy
 - Next by thread: Re: Hominid Fossils and Eustasy
 - Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread