So, this raises the possibility of groups of h.e. or h.s. 3-6 year olds running down the slow herbivores, herding them so that their older siblings/parents could club them to death in a dead end!!

By the time these kids were 12 or so they were ready to settle down and make some babies! But they had thick leg bones, I'd bet!!

I think this explains the sportmanship/politico/killer aspect of humanity better than JMcGinn's theory.
