

Re: human ancestors dived parttime for shellfish

Re: human ancestors dived parttime for shellfish

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.anthropology.paleo/2008-06/msg00012.html>

- From: Claudius Denk <claudiusdenk@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Sun, 1 Jun 2008 12:20:50 -0700 (PDT)
-

On Jun 1, 11:17 am, "Makouli" <m...@xxxxxxxx> wrote:

"Claudius Denk" <claudiusd...@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote in message

news:7a0b0e6d-c595-42ae-936b-b4dc53832359@xx

On Jun 1, 7:34 am, "Makouli" <m...@xxxxxxxx> wrote:

"Marc Verhaegen" <m_verhae...@xxxxxxxx> wrote in message

news:C467A773.12690%20m_verhaegen@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx

Yet there they are, a TV writer in England,
a Doctor (incredible but true) in Belgium, and a Ph.D. student in Australia
--all claiming that we were "more aquatic in the past".

<unmarked snip>

Re: human ancestors dived parttime for shellfish

"You'd think that several hundred years after the _Principia_,

Clark, you are the scientific equivalent of a name dropper. Newton wrote principia, you retard.

Ummm, Dimmy, the author of the Principia was never in question. Its' publication, however, was the point of the comment. It is generally regarded as the starting point of the scientific revolution. Get it? Scientific?

So, you were so desperate to state something that sounded scientific you referred to the scientific revolution.

So naturally,

Naturally, you're an idiot.

if you had continued to read my comments,

Emptyheaded nitwit.

instead of reacting with your usual disconnect, you would have understood what the scientific revolution has or has not to do with the fulminations of our friends the wet apes.

Your intentions were obvious you idiot.

It has no direct relevance to human evolution or evolution in general.

I understand that you believe that science has nothing to do with human evolution. You make that abundantly clear every time you hit that enter key.

Re: human ancestors dived parttime for shellfish

Re: human ancestors dived parttime for shellfish

Propagandizing tactics have no place in science you mental retard.

You need to find a hobby that doesn't involve complex things.

folks would get a firmer grip. These people haven't heard, nor do they understand the implications, or have any idea about the ensuing history, or appreciate that maybe their critics have, do and can, ...I guess."

</unmarked snip.

<http://groups.yahoo.com/group/AAT>

[the usual littany of special pleading]

=====
"Your strawman tactics couldn't be more obvious."
--Dimmy [aka Claudius] 12/10/2006