

sci.anthropology: Re: What is a bale of hay?

Re: What is a bale of hay?

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.anthropology/2004-11/0423.html>

From: Freddie Newsgroup (fredng_2000_at_hotmail.com)

Date: 11/23/04

Date: Tue, 23 Nov 2004 07:18:57 GMT

Bales of hay are bundles made from the stock of grain plants that have been swathed (had their seed removed) cut down and then baled. The bales can be used for many things. The straw or hay can be used for feed, insulation, bedding, or a place to fool around with the farmer's daughter in, on or around.

You can even build a complete house from them as well.

"Brilliant One" <polartemp@aol.com> wrote in message news:20041115090824.06555.00000354@mb-m22.aol.com...

> I await answers ~

> Today~

> _____

> Blog, or dog? Who knows. But if you see my lost pup, please ping me!

> <A

> HREF="http://journals.aol.com/virginiaz/DreamingofLeonardo">http://journal

> s.aol.com/virginiaz/DreamingofLeonardo

>