You called me a liar and abuser, recently, on this newsgroup.

I did not.

You have not yet (and cannot) produce my lie or abuse.

So you are a proven liar and abuser.

I would far prefer that you addressed my very simple initial request – AD67 and all that – and that my support for you against your attackers up until now could have been supported by you.

But apparently not.

You appear to be admirable at even making enemies out of friends.

It should be very easy for you to prove all the above as incorrect.

But you have not.

Unless you deliberately like to attract abuse – and there is a psychological condition that encompasses that – I therefore assume you cannot.

Other people do not like being called liars and abuser, you might be surprised to hear.

As you will shortly discover.
