You missed putting your response ahead of the original. You have some way to go to imitate the Swedish original.

Warning Stalkers: Restauration is not as fast a food as you think.

Philip and Tedd,

No I will not. AND No you wouldn't have had you been me, you haven't seen all the cards nor do you know who of persons writing here and persons reading this I have been discussing this from our different knowledge for years + you don't know when and why I take up this or that. It's a very very planned schedule.

And apart from the idiotic personal attacks from those who aren't willing to present one single source themselves nor reading the Prime sources no matter if I write exact page or not, apart from them I receive positive response because I am dyslextic one way or the other.

Which means that I have spelling problems. Which I told you and other about many times. I can write lawtexts and official texts and other such texts without any problems but writing for example an ordinary novel or a short story not related to facts isn't my cup of tea. This I owe a retired Prof from Minnesota who presented me with the idea presented few days ago.

I will not continue discussing absurd assumptions from you because neither of you have been able to present one single valid argument.

Nor have you been able to ask the single question that any scholar, no matter which type of degree, position and subject, should have asked.
