I see that this refutation was not adequate enough for you, surely it was adequate to all but the almost sober. Evidently all the Vodka in your area has been consumed by semi-employed Swedish school marm, not my problem, your problem!

> Now let's see if he has something more to say....

I see you are easily bored, I thought the discussion with Matt was illuminating, illuminati, luciferation and it would be adequate, apparently not.

Yes, the German weapons never existed, you have no proof they ever sold weapons to the Norse, and the difference between 13.5 and 15.6 million weapons proves that the Germans were not involved in the activity. It is clear the Russians made those swords and blamed it on the Germans, and since the Russians are Norse it must have been a conspiracy to defame the Germans and their superior racist Neopagan religions. You agree that you can't give me proof that Germans gave the Norse those weapons! The Ananova site is a Jewish Conspiracy against Germany for their rejection of Judaism and its impact on Christianity.

I can tell you however how the British weapons got to England, it was aboard super secret Iron Age submarines built at the North Pole to circumvent the ship destroying currents that destroyed 76 Norse ships. The submarines could ride subversion currents outward and thus could secretly supply Arthurian booty to the Norse invading England. The reason they are confused as German is because the super secret forges set up by the Norse and operated by the little green pygmies, otherwise known as Santa's elves have not yet been identified by American OR Canadian Archaeologist and will not be revealed until they return the Islands to its Rightful owners in Linköping!!! I can give you all the proof you need but.

Re: Vikings used German weapons

1. I have been told not to reveal my sources on the internet by my unrevealable super secret scholarly sources.
2. I already sent you the proof by email, but you did not do your homework.
3. I have numerous reports scattered about and know time to put them into an email.
4. The information is at a local scholars house and I only have access at 3 AM.
5. All proof has been removed by russian collaborators, obviously they lied about Karyn Woods.
6. Someone lied, I don't know who but it definitely effect the sending process.
7. My bottle of smirnoff was dropped on my foot and I had to run to the emergency room.
8. My inbox has been infected with an outbox virus. Whereas my outbox was infected by an inbox virus.
9. Someone else in the group has the information and you already have seen it.
10. "Confirmed is confirmed and was so in 1941 as it is today the chemical contents of the analyses gives and gave the origin of the iron away apart from which the excavationreport show remarkable good correspondation in photo and drawn during excavation with an alike I seen myself firsthand not far from Åtvidaberg in our teacher's forrest."
11. "I have sent you and the others direct instruction which edited book to look up in, including chapter and page, to read about some of the confirmed(!!!!) artifacts."
12. You have to wait until I am ready for that part of the discussion.
13. You "didnt read where we discussed a spade, iron bar and Norse early Medieval to mid Medieval Ship Nails."
14. "You will have to go back 2 years in the discussio which you as well as many others participated regarding Pre-Columbian."
15. "I sent references to that one three years ago"

Clearly this explanation should be adequate for a few hours, as my excuse file is running low and will require at least 6 hours of sci.archaeology observation to be refilled.
