Went to Silbury Hill today to do some coring. Got to meet with the team who have been working inside the hill and got a fascinating insight into what's going on there, (it was quite amazing looking down a microscope at 4000 year old moss). Keep an eye out for a follow-up TV programme which will be looking at the post-excavation analysis. Apparently they are expecting a few "Eureka moments"!

Last week I saw some pictures
Can't remember where.
Great profiles etc
