Thanks, I try my best to not get down or depressed, but there are times when even my own memories come back . I wasn't in some of the really bad fighting, but as a member of the 4th Inf. Div. even as a supposedly a Radio Van operator, still saw my share and still remember some of what I seen. I don't think anyone who's gone into battle is ever the same deep down inside. And having lived on the streets myself at one time, I know all to well what it's like, not only being there but being a vet on the street too.

If I had the money like bill gates has, there'd be a lot less of them there too.

I can remember what it was like coming off the plane at LAX after coming home from there and being still in uniform.
