Large ditto to that. I was around for the first night, watching Dean run around and keep things from getting wildly out of hand (there were 200+ people at the dusk talk). Views in everyone's telescopes were stunning – what a treat not to have to imagine the spiral pattern in M51. But it was M13 in the 24–inch that absolutely took my breath away. Some of the views even impressed my 12–year–old who I talked into coming up from the hotel in Williams for the eveing...
