If god still existed she would not allow religions to exist.

God was killed by the Big Bang.

She lit the blue touchpaper but forgot the part about retiring immediately.

It amounted to the same thing.

Shame there was nobody around to pick up the insurance pay–out.

We are all still suffering from the fallout of her not leaving a will.

Her children were standing further away but were blinded by the flash.

So now we just grope around making up endless stories trying to explain her death.

We are stardust, we are golden, We are billion year old carbon, ...

And we got to get ourselves back to the garden. ;–)
