Hi Greg,

I'll have to agree wholeheartedly. Almost like the good old days...and I'm lovin' it.

I recall taking a two week vacation five years ago and having several hundred on-topic posts to go through that arrived in that amount of time. Of late, before the new improved SN ratio, a couple or three OT posts/day was about average. You were dead on about the irony of this last series of attacks.

Clear Dark Steady Skies,

Hi, there, all.

As someone new to the group, I wonder if this is a bit like having night fall in an urban area, starting to observe — and suddenly realizing that the naked eye limiting magnitude is somehow 6.5 <grin>.

Anyway, I'm all for clear dark skies with good seeing and a high SN ratio on s.a.a.

Most appreciatively,
