Karl, this question has come up in church many times. Remember that as a spiritual being in a new body, you will retain some of the characteristics you have now, but there will also be many differences. Remember, there is to be no pain in Heaven, so you may not even know or care that others are being punished. We know it's going to be quite different as the lion will be lying down with the lamb. Therefore, even enemies on Earth will be at peace in Heaven. It will be quite different and it is understandable if we don't quite comprehend everything as a living person.
