What is the source of this belief? You state as fact, that there is no pain in heaven – what is the proof?

Even if your description is true, why is being doped out to the point of "so you may not even know or care that others are being punished" an admirable thing?

"We know it's going".....? This is cross-posted to a science newsgroup – please clearly state your theory, state supporting axioms, pose supporting arguments, define a testable Unique prediction of your theory, describe the test of said prediction, Conduct the test, publish the results.
