In the same way that everybody else who makes a ridiculous and obviously incorrect claim without offering any substantiation does, Karttunen.

How ironic, coming from someone who continues cross-posting his responses to those newsgroups. Ask yourself, Karttunen.

Multiple people, Karttunen; trace the thread of interest.

Irrelevant, given that the question isn't about knowing the topic of the thread, but rather why someone cross-posts their responses, Karttunen.

Given that you are one of those cross-posting their responses, you should know, Karttunen.

Unnecessary, given that you should already know, Karttunen.

To make sure of what, Karttunen?

Classic reading comprehension problem on your part, Karttunen.

> How on earth could that be possible?

Classic erroneous presupposition.
