Dear Saul and my Fellowmen,

What will happen if the fragment of the comet (the size of a truck) hits the ocean? Will this create the predicted mega–tsunami?

Will it happen if it hits land? Will it create something like meteor craters?

The scientists and astronomers are predicting that it will hit Earth at the Atlantic Ocean. Where in the Atlantic — North or South? If it hits the north of the Atlantic Ocean, which cities will be affected? I hope not Miami, Florida. Which cities will be affected if it hits the south of the Atlantic Ocean?

May 25 is not that far away. It is only 16 days from today, May 9. May 25 is two days after the actual birth of Jesus — May 23.

The peace of the true God be with us now and always.

Dear Art Deco my Fellowmen,

There may be a ring of truth in the prediction about a fragment of SW3 hitting the Earth.

I remember hearing on audio tape of our session with the Holy Spirit back in the late 1990s about what He said will be catastrophic. He said that there will be something from the sky that will fall on the ocean and the water will boil.

This something from the sky may just be this comet fragment that when it hits the ocean, huge waves will be generated and where the water will boil at the point of impact. When I heard this, I was thinking of the Pacific Ocean. I also thought of why would sea water boil when it hits the coast. I have to look for that tape to get exactly what He said. Eric's prediction is the Atlantic Ocean.

Our scientists have been accurate in predicting that the Shoemaker–Levy 9 would hit Jupiter. This happened from July 16–22, 1994. The impact of the fragments on Jupiter was spectacular. Would our scientists and astronomers also be successful this time with SW3, right in our own backyard, the mother Earth?

In the 1990s, the Holy Spirit also mentioned about water from the sea getting out onto the land. This may be the December 26, 2004 tsunami in the Indian Ocean. But the water did not boil here.

This prophesy specifies that the water would boil. It is coming near. Just less than three weeks to go. I believe we better take precaution by evacuating from the Atlantic coast than be caught up with it. And warn also our fellowmen.

The peace of the true God be with us now and always.
