

Re: What will humanity be like in 1 million AD, what can we tell from evolution?

Re: What will humanity be like in 1 million AD, what can we tell from evolution?

---

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.astro/2007-10/msg00243.html>

---

- From: "gb6724@xxxxxxxx" <gb6724@xxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Sat, 13 Oct 2007 09:33:55 -0700
-

Skulls from 1 million AD are tiny, their brains much smaller.

I can only go as far as 3000-4000 years from now and predict that circumcision will stop by then.

I imagined a 6 meter tall
woman in 1 million AD, riding on her back as she is a professional
swimmer, and removing her bra that is as big on each side as a person (today, AD).

If intelligence reaches a perfection, the only way to evolve after that is by size, especially if Americans brainwash the world further,
people will grow out of control as women will select men who are bigger and thus can work more and men select women who are into bigger
and stronger and more

Re: What will humanity be like in 1 million AD, what can we tell from evolution?

powerful people and it will be all about men.

I predicted that the USA will be attacked by all countries in the World as the only path is racist escalation. Even the Democrats are long corrupt as based on how the country is set up, the only political bargain is racist separation of benefits. The country is corrupt, broken, evil. The only think known by Democratic ideas is to raise
taxes for Smokers ever further and establish what Australia did, deny healthcare to the obese and smokers. Something is wrong about that.
Australians are racists against fat people, in the US it is not that bad yet.

But let's say that if the tendency is to move away from circimcision, the direction is 'natural'. Hippies envisioned a future, and felt a lot of things about it, a future where people live for the day and not bound to radical extremist ideas of government. We can't make people in india stop playing citars and tell them: Stop circumcision!
No, that is another country. Stop arranged marriages, it is not natural!

When one grows, he sees that fathers see these things better. Parents

Re: What will humanity be like in 1 million AD, what can we tell from evolution?

Re: What will humanity be like in 1 million AD, what can we tell from evolution?

select and not the kids. It becomes a selection where intelligence plays more a role. Indians are the best mathematicians and computer programmers. But something tells me it is more intelligent to let people fall in love and run away, parents are worthless. What do they know that a young person doesn't.

Big government ideas are always tied to cultural leadership and what results is a cultural dictatorship, one people should understand.

Who pays for it are the young people. Hippies opened their eyes. It was an era that gave way for the young, just at the time when I was born. Life was love, but this movement transforming to discos around the world are dead in the USA and big government scums logic.

Horrors are recent in history: Stalin, Hitler, while the rest of the world learned from the mistakes of the past, Bush is once again running a New Japan politics, politics of splitting the world between the contra US–SU after beating Hitler in order to control and act as big brother in world affairs.

A war between governments and people is an old thing, much bigger than what people could ever realize, and the monstrosity on the government side is always horrible, negligent, cruel, personally offending.

Re: What will humanity be like in 1 million AD, what can we tell from evolution?

Nature. Unzoned, and beautiful heavenly synth music (ridden on three choords, two short and one extended 'stepping down' with beautiful decoration). We won't be there in 3000–4000 years.

A tiny brain culture, is it a culture? I predict India, with a population of over a billion and soon outpopulating China to become the world's most sophisticated culture and people. With such a population, culture comes with more brain. Each culture strains evolution, Americans strain ration, meaning as if brain wouldn't even be allowed to exist, thought crimes are as real in the USA as Orwell's book described, and the American Gestapo is not ashamed to put police cameras in the streets as is in the San Francisco housing project, or as by the detached Google camerizing, fascisting the world illegally, but that sense of illegality is not present in most people, repression aims toward the educated. In a place full of cameras not even running away is possible, but argue an Orwell's 1984 that those in that book accepting their leader are incorrect as politics always stirs more reasons to blackmail humanity.

Bush is a 'gut person', a well defined criminal character often portrayed with a rough shaved beardy dude in 1960's Flintstones, etc. cartoons.

Criminals in power do crime without human consciousness, terrifying the world as Stalin terrified under a system. In Europe racism is a long accepted crime that comes with 4–5 years jail merely for expressing anti-sentiment of any form. 80–90 percent of Arabs think negatively of Americans today as a result of the Iraq war, and that was not the case in the past, according to a Jewish political institute in Israel who conducted the statistics. Bush created more hate than what Osama could have ever accomplished between Arabs and Americans. Racism is a crime, compromising safety with racism is corruption of politics. For a government to practice racism over others is not fun. Americans are kaput. The dollar is falling, the world does not feel safe with American things. Bush is not a safe person. Bush practices what's called a cultural dictatorship, combined with the criminal character, bank robber, confiscator, police state wannabe smarty, gangster, you name it. Brainless. Murderer.

But let's move to the future from the corrupt present where a world that evolved to be free of racism once again corroded with powers of demands in early 20th century styles, ignoring all human education, cultural education and matters of more intelligence, one that humanity relates to: educated cultures. No, a big brother is not interested, he is consumed with radical extremism defining a long tie to government and power implied as that in politics, violating humanity with it's extremism of power that is only known to be used as repression to magnify power and with it build a stronger and unbreakable bond to government through radical extremism, primarily with ties to an old

Re: What will humanity be like in 1 million AD, what can we tell from evolution?

Re: What will humanity be like in 1 million AD, what can we tell from evolution?

God Save the Queen constitution whose imperialist inquisitors and informants do not accept humanitarian concerns represented by the UN human rights groups, one of those groups who received a Nobel Prize yesterday for global involvement in matters of Global Warming.

In a million years many ice ages and extreme heat ages can develop, Earth seems to have a mechanism that if one element builds up in the environment, the change triggers another 'form'. By a change of climate, the climate changes. With very few trees there is very little carbon dioxide, with a bushy planet of trees and warmth there is a lot of rain that washes down things from the air.

Growing to become 6 meters tall happen from a good life and from a long term bushy jungle environments and rainy warmth.

A good example of Earth can be seen in East and West Germany. In East Germany everything is natural, all forests are natural, in West Germany everything is man-grown. Trees in the forests are aligned in rows and columns and counted, and landscaping under them is man made. In East Germany one can still get lost in the forest and there is no order to villages, cities, streets. Russia is like that, huge nature left un-grass cut. When I was a child, I dreamt of a smooth grass somewhere on a climb in a forest, very smooth, something I have never seen. A teletubby world forms in the USA, and one can find ugliness in that when all nature is transformed. In some places as in Japan even between subway train rails there is landscaping. Everything must be landscaped, but with such worlds sculptures, art fades away. In Europe, say in Budapest, every building seems to have sculptures, frescos, art. People don't even see it, in places where everything is zoned and regulated, art dies. There are no fountains, sculptures, history, only grass cutting regulations, and when that happens, nothing more happens. All individual rights are robbed for serving a model, and not living for the day. Radical extremism becomes a nightmare as big brother controls landscape and mind of other people. All homes need to have at least 50 percent grass and it becomes a law, creativity dies, and a big brother paradise reminding of the mafia forms tastelessly.

Re: What will humanity be like in 1 million AD, what can we tell from evolution?