He is the guy in the boss' office, massaging his shoulders. He is the virus.

But everybody admit they love sniffvirus. It's the truth, even I liked him.

I was very offended when he labeled me as a thief, one who must not be allowed in after hours, one who must be watched at all times. It was a complete misunderstanding. I took home a CD with the Windows operating system and was a big mouth about installing it at home.

The world exploded. He immediately realized, that I, who received numerous software at work was not supposed to have it installed on my computer at home.
