

Re: Would you hire me Google, I have a Summa Cum Laude in computer science

Re: Would you hire me Google, I have a Summa Cum Laude in computer science

---

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.astro/2007-10/msg00675.html>

---

- From: gb6726 <gb6726@xxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Thu, 25 Oct 2007 16:04:57 -0700
-

On Oct 25, 5:03 pm, gb6726 <gb6...@xxxxxxxx> wrote:

On Oct 25, 5:00 pm, gb6726 <gb6...@xxxxxxxx> wrote:

Google: I would not.

Me: Oh, I do not fit the profile of the hard-core.

Google in his head with a Booglebush threat psycho immensity: That's right.

Only women can make it in as infiltrators. My sister was hired at Google.

A Google employee: We are actually much nicer, we take dogs to work.
It is pretty liberal here. It is anything but black suits, agent smith outware,
black ties at all business meetings. Come to think of it there are no business meetings
that

Re: Would you hire me Google, I have a Summa Cum Laude in computer science

I can remember of.

So why I wouldn't be hired? Would I hire a Google fanatic?
Would there
be a lie behind a smile, should I make a possessive look and smile, like an old dog laughing? It's us and them, we can be bad. We can spy and come up with
spy
tools and feel in pervasion against the world, then learn the Google
ethics of the company represented in the words of Google's customer service, sharing
a Ron
L. Hubbard mindset of referring to the masses as hearts and souls and
those serving them wear white robes behind the keyboard, making 20 dollars a day and
working 18 hours a day.

Should I feel bad that this company confiscated humanitarian assets
criminally,
robbed 15 million international books worth 153 billion at
the least
criminally
without checking for copyright, while remembering that stolen works of arts is actually crimes against humanity. Copyrights on all those books mean
there
is a business owner and profiting is not allowed from those
works,
while the
works were clearly confiscated for profit, or better saying,
for Google profit sharing,
marketing.

Re: Would you hire me Google, I have a Summa Cum Laude in computer science

"No." – the voice repeats. "No, I wouldn't hire you."

Are you that familiar with psychos? Is it written all over them that they are one of the people who would stay here for a long time and would be able to fit in to the world of inquisition. What do I need to do to look like a psycho. I think it's the way one looks, it's not something he can change. People relate personality to appearance. From psychos they stay away. So I must be not highly interactive, quiet, but open eyes that I feel I am invited.

Serving the hearts and souls. Language and style acquired for a few years in 2001. Do no evil. Then the customer service adapted a cold style. Too many complaints, too many angry customers. Need to automate all customer service issues, let users answer all questions of other users. Many companies with business issues couldn't get through. Some now call Google the world's most arrogant company, but this arrogance demands power. Now a city is growing in Mountain View, California, the main building reminds of the wide Kremlin. Not a person coming in or out during business hours. The streets are guarded by guards walking the sidewalks. This is the Kremlin, man. He is supposed to have a long coat and machine guns, perhaps walking and eating an apple. No, the security guy is some commando. Most companies have security inside, here one finds a silent and wide wide and tall, like 5, 6, 7 story tall building, depends how close you go to it.

I expected smaller buildings, more techie. Yes, I stopped by. I walked in as a tourist. I asked for a restroom. When I said I was a tourist, the man at the front desk opened his eyes, just as a man would in the Kremlin when an unwelcome person appears. I am sure he warned all security. No access to the restroom, you must leave immediately. Out!

Re: Would you hire me Google, I have a Summa Cum Laude in computer science

The restroom was 10 meters away, visible from where I stood.

No human contact of any kind with outsiders. He thought I was an insider, so he was smiling at me at first. A lot of dudes with flirky hair work in Google. A lot of Lotus cars outside, must have been given out at one time as a Christmas bonus.

In Microsoft, going to a bathroom is not a problem to one who visits the campus.

Actually I came for an interview, and I need to use the bathroom. My interview is in the next building over there but I spilled something on my Booglebush.

On your what?

My Booglebush is a threat psycho. Can I use the restroom or what.

Of course, it is right over there, you can't miss it.