

Re: Mammal database?

Re: Mammal database?

---

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.bio.evolution/2006-06/msg00007.html>

---

- From: William Morse <wdmorse@xxxxxxxxxxxxx>
  - Date: Thu, 1 Jun 2006 01:10:40 -0400 (EDT)
-

"rjmercier@xxxxxxxx" <rjmercier@xxxxxxxx> wrote in news:e50qo8\$2re\$1@darwin.ediacara.org:

I need to collect a list of mammals by weight, i.e. 1-20lbs, 21-40lbs, etc.

Are there any online database that have this type of information?

I was going to suggest a search on "allometric equation mammals", since this type of research on scaling often correlates various parameters with body weight and might have such lists. I did do a quick search on google and did not come up with much. Unfortunately most of the published papers just show the graphs and not the raw data. But maybe varying the search terms a little may get you to a useful site.

Good luck!

Yours,

Bill Morse

.