

Re: H2O2

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.chem/2004-08/1145.html>

From: Dirk Bruere at Neopax (dirk_at_neopax.com)

Date: 08/30/04

Date: Mon, 30 Aug 2004 13:02:26 +0100

Bernhard Kuemel wrote:

> Dirk Bruere at Neopax wrote:

>

>>>> While you're at it, how can oxygen gas (O2) exist? :-)

>>>

>>> Or oxygen fluoride OF2

>>>

>> Or even helium trioxide, HeO3

>

>

> I experienced H2O2, I can imagine OF2, but I can not imagine HeO3 and > google doesn't know about it.

Google obviously lacks imagination.

--

Dirk

The Consensus:-

The political party for the new millenium

<http://www.theconsensus.org>