

Re: Remove Lead (i.e. Pb) marks from an enamel bathtub?????

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.chem/2005-08/msg00916.html>

- From: "muha" <muhammar@xxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: 30 Aug 2005 13:20:43 -0700
-

No. A body has to be in the tub first – before applying the nitric acid: this will remove the lead marks from the entry/exit wounds. Works well on most mother in law.

• References:

- ◆ Remove Lead (i.e. Pb) marks from an enamel bathtub?????
◇ From: NYC Doc
 - ◆ Re: Remove Lead (i.e. Pb) marks from an enamel bathtub?????
◇ From: muha
 - ◆ Re: Remove Lead (i.e. Pb) marks from an enamel bathtub?????
◇ From: Unknown
 - ◆ Re: Remove Lead (i.e. Pb) marks from an enamel bathtub?????
◇ From: NYC Doc
- Prev by Date: Re: Remove Lead (i.e. Pb) marks from an enamel bathtub?????
 - Next by Date: purifying phosphates on sugars
 - Previous by thread: Re: Remove Lead (i.e. Pb) marks from an enamel bathtub?????
 - Next by thread: Re: Remove Lead (i.e. Pb) marks from an enamel bathtub?????
 - Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread