

Re: Kraft – Associate Principal Scientist – FlavorCharacterization (East Hanover, NJ)

Source: <http://sci.tech–archive.net/Archive/sci.chem/2005–09/msg00649.html>

- From: <salmonegg@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Thu, 29 Sep 2005 03:29:37 GMT
-

On 9/28/05 6:12 PM, in article 433B3F6A.3ADED3E8@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx, "Uncle Al" <UncleAl0@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx> wrote:

> Kraft Food–like products as fish bait are entirely acceptable. Give > your fly a tiny squirt of WD–40, shake or blow off the excess, and try > again. There is no known documentation on Velveeta plus WD–40.

There actually is a fly pattern named WD–40 that is tied for the San Juan River in NM.

I can't believe that my mail speller didn't catch bate.

Bill

.

• References:

- ◆ Kraft – Associate Principal Scientist – Flavor Characterization (East Hanover, NJ)
 ◇ From: gj
 - ◆ Re: Kraft – Associate Principal Scientist – Flavor Characterization (East Hanover, NJ)
 ◇ From: Uncle Al
 - ◆ Re: Kraft – Associate Principal Scientist – Flavor Characterization (East Hanover, NJ)
 ◇ From: salmonegg
 - ◆ Re: Kraft – Associate Principal Scientist – FlavorCharacterization (East Hanover, NJ)
 ◇ From: Uncle Al
-
- Prev by Date: Re: Product of HNO3 and NaCN?
 - Next by Date: Re: air separation
 - Previous by thread: Re: Kraft – Associate Principal Scientist – FlavorCharacterization (East Hanover, NJ)
 - Next by thread: Re: Kraft – Associate Principal Scientist – FlavorCharacterization (East Hanover, NJ)
 - Index(es):
 - ◆ Date
 - ◆ Thread