

Re: What happened to Japan?

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.econ/2004-07/1266.html>

From: Johnny 5 (johnny5_at_yahoo.com)

Date: 07/20/04

Date: Tue, 20 Jul 2004 18:50:58 GMT

Jim Blair <see@sig.com> wrote in news:cdj1ul\$kc5\$1@news.doit.wisc.edu:

>> Globalism is good for every citizen on the planet – except the >> American citizen that has to live through the decades of changes.
>
> Some US workers lose when jobs move to India or China. But workers > there benefit. I say better the jobs go there than that they move > here for those jobs.

I am have intimately experienced many cultures, I am very accepting of indians and chinese, and mexicans, but always usually the aristocrats of each culture, the poor mexicans coming up here with no education or training are hard for me to bond with. I would rather they stay home in mexico and take the jobs or learn good american english and and our ways before they come here, current immigration policy just needs to be enforced better.

>> That like saying since you can lead a horse to water but can't make it >> drink no horses will be led to water. I disagree completely.
>
> You can send a kid to school, but you can't make him think.

I wish more lefties understood this and quit wasting mine and your tax dollars on a hopeless cause.

> Actually it WAS the desire of families to work hard and to sacrifice > for the future of their children that made the US great. And if/when > we lose that, we will fall behind other countries (like China and > India) that still have it.

We lost it, right about the time the bra got burned it was no longer for husband, family, or children, but for ME ME ME. Once a 12 year old has done in her short life what took you 40 years to experience, her need to ACHIEVE is seriously reduced, once they have hit crack rock at 12, they have no more need to do anything else the rest of thier life.

>> Bush's father gave an education to young george.
>

sci.econ: Re: What happened to Japan?

> He sent Dubwa to Yale, but did he get an education? Or just a degree?

The guy that took the GI bill in the past, did he get an education or just a degree? The GI BILL is not the answer, sending more kids to school is not the answer, letting people learn at their own pace individually to contribute how they want too is more efficient.

> Note that he didn't actually give them money. He just made them appreciate an opportunity that they already had.

The progress paradox comes into affect, people only want SO MUCH FREEDOM – beyond that too many choices complicate their lives. When I was young, you didn't have PC, Internet, HDTV, DVD, Cellphone, 500 restaurant choices, 3 major shopping malls, 24 hour walmart – lets be honest, CONSUMER choices and freedoms today occupy so much time why does little princess really NEED to learn anything – its all been provided to her on a silver platter. Having kids would rob her FREE TIME to enjoy all these luxuries society has created for her, NO KIDS will be born in that system.

> I can remember when Nixon was the worst president ever. He was going to cancel the 1972 (or was that the 1976?) election and rule as dictator. And this was a certainty, as my Leftish friends KNEW from inside information.

BWAHAHA! Damn lefties always got the best CIA info!

> If you want to reduce mercury emissions (as well as CO2), support shutting down coal power plants. And nuclear is the only technology that is ready to replace them now.

Right, time to enter the nuclear age in style.

> I also see people buying bottled water for $1.75 a pint, when standing beside a drinking fountain (and Madison city water is the best there is, at least as good as anything in a bottle).
>
> I say this means those people have more dollars than sense.

Absolutely, it is more trendy to have that PERSONALIZED bottle than a communal water fountain, one is the BRA BURNERS liberation and independance concept carried to extreme – damn stingy bitches. Wouldn't piss on you to put out the fire. Bitches are just taught to be stingy these days and NOT SHARE.

> Good for you. I hope you have students that are there because they want to learn. Will you be teaching them to field strip an AK 47? (just kidding).

The only time my education was interrupted was when I was in school. – George Bernard Shaw

Re: What happened to Japan?

sci.econ: Re: What happened to Japan?

--

Government policy in interest rates, and on finance generally, has been marked by vacillation, wishful thinking, electoral expediency of the most shameful type towards the end of last year, contortions and contradictions, all to accommodate the redneck economics of the National Country Party. (Harsard Aug.27 1981)