

TURMEL: Criticisms of Moore's F-911 puff piece censored on GoogleGroups

[Jct: This is the fourth time I post this critique on USENET newsgroups and not one has ever been picked up by the Google Groups search engine. There must be secret censorship going on. I'm honored.]

JCT: I wonder if Google is censoring its USENET newsgroups so articles critical of Michael Moore's Farenheit 911 don't get through their search engine. Is the Google Groups search engine fixed.

I've cross-posted all my posts to alt.fan.john-turmel and can.politics and most to sci.econ and sci.engr and alt.conspiracy with a couple of others. Usually, an article posted on USENET will be picked up by the Google Groups search engine within a day. Or there's a flurry of static from something in Germany to drown some posts out.

But my last post Farenheit 911 Painful Deceptions never appeared in a google groups search.

So I posted another post, "Farenheit 9/11 puff piece" to see if it would make it through the google search engine and it did not. It's at my ncf.ca USENET provider but no search for farenheit and Turmel brings up the criticism.

Fascinating. It's the first time I've actually felt the hidden hand of censorship.

Farenheit 9/11 criticisms don't show up??
