

Democrats promoting EVERY BUSH LIE -- Bush-Clinton-Bush-Kerry CFR tag team -- LAST CHANCE do you get behind 911 EVIDENCE OR NOT???

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.econ/2004-07/1947.html>

From: senhor san (dharmat_nwinformail@nwinformail.com)

Date: 07/27/04

Date: Tue, 27 Jul 2004 05:07:15 -0700

Democrats promoting EVERY BUSH LIE -- Bush-Clinton-Bush-Kerry CFR tag team -- LAST CHANCE Do you get behind the 911 EVIDENCE OR NOT???

They are sold-out organized crime.

What about you? Are you sold out to organized crime too?

You are if you keep discussing the phony issues of the democratic convention

You are if you add to the criminal pretense that Nader, Kerry, Badnarik are in any way real opposition to Wolfowitz, Perle, Kissinger, Cheney, Rumsfeld, etc.

I have given you evidence proving to any intelligent thinking person the guilt of the Pentagon leadership in the perpetration of the 911 mass-murder false-flag hoax. That evidence is here for you to share with your countrymen in this dark hour of deception and rot and cold-blooded mass-murder that threatens national enslavement and a permanent return to rule by a snot aristocracy such as prevailed in the world before the American Revolution.

<http://www.bedoper.com/eastman>

<http://groups.yahoo.com/group/911crimefile/message/8>

<http://groups.yahoo.com/group/pentagon911/message/507>

<http://groups.yahoo.com/group/911crimefile/message/3>

<http://groups.yahoo.com/group/9-11-demonstrative-evidence-of-frameup/messages/1>

You have wondered why the mass media has not taken up this evidence? You have wondered why the Commission did not make it the cornerstone of its investigations and conclusions? You wonder why Nader doesn't mention it, why the Democrats Citizens for Legitimate Government (Rectanwald controlling underling Lori Price) has never promoted this information. You wonder why 911 investigators John Judge, Kyle Hence, Carol Brouillet, Jared Israel,

Democrats promoting EVERY BUSH LIE -- Bush-Clinton-Bush-Kerry CFR tag team -- LAST CHANCE d

Sarha Roberts, Mike Ruppert, Mike Rivero, Joe Vials and Michael Moore -- in fact only a tiny minority of 911 investigators even acknowledge the existence of this evidence, much less link to it or put it to the fore where it belongs in their sites, documentaries and books. You have wondered -- and, wondering more than thinking for your self, you have decided that you too should ignore this evidence. Surely, you conclude, if everywhere I look this evidence is being studiously ignored that it must be somehow false or, at least, better ignored for some good reason etc.

Let me tell you -- you are the victim of a deception so extensive and monstrous that it distorts the entire perceived reality in which your mind dwells -- an army of social psychologists, political scientists, intelligence operatives and media monopolists are bent on you never responding to this evidence.

Again I say -- only the evidence proving that 911 was a mass-murder black-op can bring down global enslavement at the hands of money-power organized crime.

I am asking you to show that you understand this. I am asking that you stop responding to every propaganda issue of the traitors and of the traitor's false opposition and of deluded weak minded people who follow the stream of propaganda instead of swimming against the current to reach the only hope of safety from cascading into oblivian.

If you are watching the Democratic Convention -- you have already handed them your minds.

I ask you to take up the theme of this letter and -- by sheer personal will power born of reasoned decision -- make it your message too. Don't forward any "news" that does not include your putting it into perspective and presenting the real 911 evidence.

I am asking you to stand in your own mind, in your own convictions against a deluge of numbing deceit -- that we may yet break the chains being forged at these two "major party" conventions.

You have nothing to loose bit your chains.

Dick Eastman
Yakima, Washington
Every man is responsible to every other man.

Go to your bookstore and buy David Griffen's "911 The New Pearl Harbor" make that you standard reference for convicting and bringing down mass-murder government. Give a copy to every strong-minded awake committed individual in your town.

=====

A second opinion:

9/11 Probe? The Joke's on Us
By John Kaminski

6.7 million Americans are in jail, but Kean panel refused to investigate the crime; worse, alternative explanations fail to convince public that cover-up happened

In a country that spends billions of dollars on its prisons, babbles incessantly about law and order, and now has 6.7 million of its citizens behind bars, in the case of the greatest crime in its history – the 9/11 attacks in New York and Washington – the official panel appointed by the president to investigate this catastrophic caper decided that finding out who really did it was unimportant, and devoted no time to pursuing the matter.

Hello?

Let me say it again. Every politician in America campaigns using rabid law-and-order, anti-terror rhetoric, and applauds the pathetic fact that the U.S. spends much more money on jails than it does on schools. Putting criminals in jail is a top priority for all aspiring political candidates. Yet when it came to conducting a competent investigation of the greatest crime in American history, the panel, which was appointed by the very thugs who many consider to be the real perpetrators of the entire tragedy, made no effort to find out who the guilty parties actually were. Instead, a seedy group of compromised political functionaries relied on baseless and unsubstantiated fictions by the patrician powermongers who run the U.S., and conducted no real investigation at all.

What is wrong with this picture?

OK, for you TV-ized dullards out there, I'm going to run through this wretched riddle one more time.

Because of the profits now being exploited by conducting legitimate businesses but using prison labor at 11 cents an hour, America's prison population is the largest in the world. The central issue in the upcoming presidential election is national security, and as a result, tens of thousands of innocent people are incarcerated as a result of this consciously constructed paranoid phobia of pre-emptive (and selective) justice.

And yet, the very men who preach these law and order mantras are the same manipulators who ordered the Kean commission NOT to look for the real culprits of 9/11. They were told to declare at the outset of their so-called deliberations that Arabs in caves did it, that there was plenty of evidence, but that this evidence couldn't be revealed because of national security issues.

This contemporary brand of unconstitutional vigilante justice, a result of this very crime, had recently been legalized when the contrived passage of the Patriot Act destroyed virtually all the Constitutional legal protections Americans had previously enjoyed, including the presumption of innocence, the right to a fair trial, the right to confront one's accusers, and the right to a lawyer.

With the basic freedoms Americans have always counted on lying in tiny pieces in a dumpster in Washington, it was easy – it followed naturally – for President Bush and his snide accomplices to command the panel investigating the crime that was used as a pretense to destroy America's legal system to ignore any pursuit of those who might have been involved in the grand 9/11 deception and simply declare, on the basis of so-called evidence that these crooks themselves provided, that they knew who the guilty parties were. And the panel did just that. You have seen its final report. No one is to blame for 9/11. It's no one's fault. Muslims did it. And that's that.

Tell it to the 6.7 million people in American jails.

Tell them that a majority of Americans accept the silly notion that 19 Arabs took command of four airliners and killed more than 3,000 people, even though no fewer than eight of these 19 alleged mass murderers have been found to be alive – content, breathing and happily living in various countries overseas, and yet the FBI brazenly refuses to revise its list of perpetrators. People serving time for identity theft ought to get a big kick out of that one.

Tell the convicted arsonists you find languishing in the American gulag that jetliner fuel (kerosene) fires can completely demolish three steel-frame skyscrapers in a single day, even though it had never happened before in history to even one building. That ought to light up their day.

Especially tell the thousands of Muslims still incarcerated on bogus charges – possibly some of whom have had relatives blown to bits in Iraq for no other reason than profits for Halliburton and Bechtel – that devout Islamic hijackers always go to strip clubs, snort cocaine, and consort with prostitutes shortly before they kill themselves for Allah in a jihad against those whose freedom they hate.

And for those thugs doing time for battery, tell them the story that five desperadoes with boxcutters (BOXCUTTERS, you know, those little utility knives you use to open UPS packages) paralyzed with fear all the passengers on an airliner (on four different planes!) to the point where the timid travelers were willing to give up their lives because of those little blades. Puh-leeze tell them that!

All right. Enough of that. What an indictment of the American educational system that a majority (apparently) has accepted the clumsy lies mouthed by the neocons and now most people believe the hollow report dutifully churned out by the Kean commission. But plenty of investigative analysts brighter than me have already commented on that.

You know what's turning out to be the real joke? The inept attempts of so-called 9/11 researchers like me to articulately and convincingly rebuke and disprove propaganda that is so blatantly bogus. After almost three years, and despite the profound clumsiness and transparency of the outright lies that have been told about the reasons for war in Afghanistan and Iraq, the so-called 9/11 truth movement has spectacularly failed to convince the American people their government is lying to them about almost everything, especially everything concerning 9/11.

Sure, most of the researchers are as broke as me, and have had to cobble together their facts and refutations while trying to stay alive and support families. And also for sure, too few people have even attempted to ask the right questions, analyze the false stories, or question the obvious coverups like the carting away of the evidence without proper forensic examination.

Absolutely for sure, no one with any serious money has made an attempt to join the 9/11 truth movement, only tens of thousands of little people, who with ten or a hundred bucks at a time have tried to support those trying to ferret out the real story, the actual facts.

Considering the millions being squandered on that superficial and ultimately meaningless Democratic National Convention this week, we could have predicted the outcome – the coverup always wins, because the coverup always has the real money on its side.

But beyond that traditional excuse, and despite dozens of superlative and heroic efforts by mostly unfinanced individuals – and a few Jews willing to put the spotlight on Israel figure valiantly in this group – the effort to convince the public that 9/11 was an inside job has failed. The malignant media mindlock has prevailed.

With the essentially unopposed publication of the Kean coverup report and those who continue to protest the dishonest superficiality of the major parties locked in cages far from the scenes of so-called democratic debate, the game appears to be over with regard to 9/11, and the U.S. can continue on its path to endless war accompanied by the cheers of just about the entire American population, or so the TV wags would tell us.

The 9/11 truth movement must now be content with rented meeting halls in cheap hotels, just down the hall from the JFK group, to discuss their theories and vent their spleens, as truth and justice are left for dead by the side of the road, just like they always have been throughout American history.

Among the things you might want to mention to those occupants of American prisons – a group many of us are likely to join in the coming years if current trends toward suppression of free speech continue – are certain events in the attempt to expose the 9/11 coverup that were curious in the extreme.

Convicted embezzlers from Danbury to San Quentin would chuckle at the story about the most famous of 9/11 investigators, Mike Ruppert himself, who says that we should stop looking for the real perpetrators of the greatest crime in American history – the rich psychos who made millions off pre-9/11 stock trades – because they can't be pursued due to international banking laws which don't permit revealing their names, and there's no sense beating our heads against the wall.

Ironically, it was Ruppert's story that got us started on this path of suspicion, but now he's saying don't pursue it because it's against the law, in spite of the fact that the names of these despicable people – who knew what was going to happen on 9/11 in advance – are most likely to lead us to the real criminals who planned and executed this horror. It seems to me that laws like this – laws that allow criminals to hide behind convenient screens in the name of profit – are simply made to be broken, in the overriding interest of justice. Screw the bankers. They're the enemies of all humanity.

This isn't the only flaw in Ruppert's recent efforts, as he has effectively hijacked a large segment of the 9/11 truth movement into a discussion of peak oil concerns, and his message, often indistinguishable from oil company propaganda, sounds more like an excuse for war than it does an indictment of those waging these unjustifiable wars against innocent countries.

The remainder of the 9/11 truth movement – or at least that part of it that aspires toward serious analysis as opposed to that segment opportunistically trying to acquire political influence – has pretty much split down the middle – between empirical and seemingly provable observations and fantastic analyses of various videos of the tragedies.

Most recently Phil Jayhan's letsroll911.org has issued some astounding assertions about replacement planes with no windows firing missiles at the South Tower just before it hit that has attracted a lot of attention. Jayhan's offerings are similar to the earlier hologram conclusions offered by The Webfairy, and the topper in this category is Scott Loughrey's recent articulation of his no-planes theory that asserts 9/11 was all done with mirrors (and explosives in the buildings; that part, nobody I know disagrees with).

It is not my intention to agree or disagree with these highly improbable theories, because I will not pretend to possess the technical expertise in film analysis that they claim to possess. In addition, each of them has made valuable contributions in other aspects of the 9/11 myth-debunking that has earned the respect of many. That also goes for a number of people who support their conclusions, particularly Gerard Holmgren and Leonard Spencer, and other very reputable analysts of the collective body of evidence that has been gathered refuting the government's falsehood-riddled version of what happened on that fateful day.

But it is my intention to say these fanciful speculations have destroyed the 9/11 truth movement, and ruined any opportunity for the public to unite behind a consensus alternative version of what really happened, which is surely not what the government said happened.

The higher goal of disproving the lies we have been told has been betrayed and squandered by those who value the novel shock value of their own suspect pet theories and questionable high-tech revelations.

The real purpose of researching 9/11 is to find out who really did it, and to that end, what was needed was a coherent, consensus description that would convince the public mind to effectively protest and overturn the government's false story.

With the publication of the Kean report, and its general acceptance by the public, the best chance for discovering the truth about 9/11 has been lost. We have all failed. And everyone loses. Everyone except those who made the big money, the political parasites who profit from suffering and prosecute those merely trying to discover the truth in a world made mad by money and made completely dishonest by fear of telling the truth and standing together against this senseless insanity.

What we have to look forward to because of all this I'd rather not think about right now.

=====

"We don't need a seeing-eye absurdist to understand how wacky it is for Ralph Nader to get on the ballot in different states with the help of a conservative outfit that's a front group for all those corporate interests Nader has spent his life trying to cut down to size."

-- Bill Moyers

=====

Citizens for Legitimate Government wrote:

Top Democrats press case for Bush's defeat -- Democrats raised the curtain on their four-day presidential nominating convention last night with spirited speeches urging voters to elect Senator John F. Kerry for his national security credentials and the economic and social programs he promises.

Reply:

Since when is any globalist elite candidate to be believed on economic and social issues -- they are only concerned with wars good influence on the bond markets same as any Rockefeller Republican (now called Neo-Cons). Oh, yes, there will be economic and social "PROGRAMS" but these will not be for the people -- they will be for the politicalization of the giving out of the pittance that the elites will allow the people in a war-state debt-slavery economy -- and the Democratic Party are the small-time organized crime who look forward to administering those handouts -- that's the best they can conceive of and so they support Kerry.

rats promoting EVERY BUSH LIE -- Bush-Clinton-Bush-Kerry CFR tag team -- LAST CHANCE do you get behind 911 I

--Dick Eastman (who knows)

Democrats promoting EVERY BUSH LIE -- Bush-Clinton-Bush-Kerry CFR tag team -- LAST CHANCE d