

Re: This is a luxurious time for Americans

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.econ/2004-09/0270.html>

From: shinakaidah (shinakaidah_at_comcast.net)

Date: 09/06/04

Date: Mon, 6 Sep 2004 08:23:43 -0700

dude. feel free to lead by example. it would be very inspirational... and I'll be sure to tell every homeless person I meet how much luxury they are living in.

--

dahutch. STILL that LoneWolf kinda guy...er...CHOMP!
woof...Woof...WOOF!
"David Polewka" <imbibe@mindspring.com> wrote in message news:44133c84.0409060336.3a590d42@posting.google.com...
> <http://www.chapelhillnews.com/opinion/story/1539319p-7719971c.html>
>
> This is a luxurious time for Americans
>
> The sheer size of our population is why we have to be entangled > in Middle East affairs to keep the oil flowing. That involvement > is the direct cause of anti-U.S. terrorism.
>
> We're living in luxury compared to the rest of history, with our > indoor plumbing, convenient and reliable water and food supplies, > push-button heating and air conditioning, ready-made clothing,
> cheap transportation and great variety of entertainment.
>
> Why do we have to be so greedy regarding longevity?
>
> -- David Polewka, Chapel Hill
>
> --