Which women are you talking about? If they're representing the majority, I don't mind being politically ruled by women. I hope Hilary Clinton will be running against Colin Powell in 2008. That will give many of your countrymen something to think about.

Concerned about what?

Ok, so enlighten me. Was there any government by anyone not from the oligopoly in the last century?

Re your previous post, which of my computers? And what would I be looking for? Should I report this comment to your ISP as a threat of cracking? If you're still having fantasies about Mr. Rove eavesdropping on my keystrokes, you ought to know that it would take heavy corruption in both the political and the judicial system – at several levels – for him to be able to command such a thing against anyone in your country. As for the added difficulties in taking it abroad, well, thank you for your concern, but I'm OK.
