

Re: Wages, Inflation and Social Security

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.econ/2005-01/1035.html>

forbisgaryg_at_msn.com

Date: 01/15/05

Date: 15 Jan 2005 11:05:05 -0800

Few taxpayers will buy ten billion dollar airplanes or coat racks (non-functional strategic missile defense systems.) Individuals are more likely to buy pet rocks and plastic trees.

Governments spend money differently than individuals. I don't know why you would think that unknown. If they spend money differently then the production mix is different and the job mix is different.