

Re: Intellectual Racism(Why Not Admit The Bell Curve Rings True?)

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.econ/2005-02/0317.html>

---

From: VtSkier (VtSkier_at_nospam.com)

Date: 02/03/05

Date: Wed, 02 Feb 2005 21:42:29 -0500

Rob Duncan wrote:

> "Les Cargill" <INOCargill@cfl.Arr.com> wrote in message > news:9YeMd.14821$JO2.14334@tornado.tampabay.rr.com...

>

>>Rob Duncan wrote:

>>

>>><srprozak@gmail.com> wrote in message

>>>news:1107237814.369692.12290@f14g2000cwb.googlegroups.com...

>>>

>>>

>>>>*I don't see what part of nationalism requires us to discuss other >>>>races. We care about our own, and we want to be only with our own, as >>>>that's what is required for us to have our ethnoculture intact. I don't >>>>even want to talk about black people, and not from disrespect for them, >>>>but simply because for me, culture and ethnicity are important and thus
>>>>I am 100% focused toward my own. If this attitude had been prevalent, >>>>not only would the grotesque history of slavery not have occurred, but >>>>race-mixing would have never been even considered.*

>>>>All IMHO, of course.

>>>

>>>

>>>>*Perhaps this is the first time youve learned this... but racism isnt the >>>>reason for slavery. ALL cultures have ALWAYS had slavery. ALL, ALWAYS.
>>>>Racism played no part in it. Although Christian abolitionists managed to >>>>convince Lincoln to end it. "Racism" was invented by the buyers, slave >>>>traders, and owners of that era.*

>>>

>>>

>>>>Rob

>>

>>No.

>>

>>Racism was invented in reaction to the horrendous practices >>that evolved after slavery ended in the U.S.

>>

>>These practices were based on a bunch of phrenologists

sci.econ: Re: Intellectual Racism(Why Not Admit The Bell Curve Rings True?)

>>extrapolating Dawrin's theory well beyond the breaking point, >>to rationalize the exploitation of the freed slaves.

>>

>>"Racism" as a concept was developed as the flimsy and >>pernicious justifications for Klanism, Birchism and >>Jim Crow were stripped away, layer by layer.

>>

>>But it was not until the Holocaust that there was >>universal, undeniable and incontrovertible evidence >>of just how far it could go.

>>

>>--

>>Les Cargill

>

>

> No. Slave traders started to decry the humanity of the owned slave, long > before the war started, in attempts to stave off the moral outrage that one > man had a right to own another. It was christianity that brought slavery to > an end in America. Nothing else. You can argue amongst yourselves on just > who it was who supported slavery the most.

>

>

> Rob

>

>

Harrumph! Christianity indeed. I think you'll find that the strongest abolitionists were good old New England Unitarians. Their belief in a Christian God has always been suspect. I think you'll find the American slave owners were good God-fearing Christians to a man. At least they said they were.

By the way, I thought this was a backcountry/outdoorsy kind of newsgroup.

VtSkier