The funniest thing here is that during the discussion you have advocated violence and seizure of someone's property in almost every post and it was me who have kept on opposing it.

This is a lie. You use circular logic. You assume by default that taxation is violence then you try to demonstrate that taxation is violence.

No, it is not. Taxation is a mutual agreement between the society and you.

You don't like it ? Perfect, stop paying taxes but at the same moment you have to:

- stop using the roads and any form of public assets
- stop interacting with other people taking advantage of society
- doing business of any kind in the society
- not using any money since they are a thing of the society

I've got a better idea. I'll pay for it when I use it. A toll road suits me just fine. Pay-per-use is just about the fairest model there is for taxes. You don't use the service, you don't pay.

Why should I pay SS. It likely won't be there when I need it
