And you think that it would've been more reliable would it have been in government's hands?:-)

Not necessarily. But more regulated, heck yes.

You get millions knowing top ten golf players but 30% are not able to locate Louisiana on the map, and this AFTER Katrina.

You get highschool kids able to tell you the name of last 25 earners of "golden glove" (is there something like this, maybe yes:-) but not able to tell you anything about Archimedes.

I strongly believe that it is media to blame for this behaviors. They broadcast baseball every day, but I never saw them on doing the same for a schoolers math competition.
