

Re: more electoral defeats for the feudalists

Source: <http://sci.tech--archive.net/Archive/sci.econ/2006-11/msg00303.html>

- From: peter@xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx (Peter Bjørn Perlsø)
 - Date: Sun, 26 Nov 2006 21:22:45 +0100
-

<royls@xxxxxxxx> wrote:

Right. My bad.

?? So, which premise?

That the state has an immaculate conception that happened as a contract between society and a coercive agency.

Again, my bad. I mean initiation of coercion (force, theft and it's corollary, fraud).

Please explain why government must necessarily initiate coercion under circumstances where a PDA would necessarily not do so.

Because PDAs are hired, while states are aggressors that give themselves the privilege of monopoly on justice taxation and violence. This is pretty basic stuff, Roy.

Thought not.

No, occasionally you don't, evidently.

—
regards , Peter B. P. – <http://titancity.com/blog>
<http://markedspartiet.dk>, <http://macplanet.dk>

Re: more electoral defeats for the feudalists

<http://siad.dk>