Just heard the lyrics, something about love, then all his children are insane. A variation on the doors, with some synth pad and discordant singing. What my music is traded for.

It is disgusting that my hard drive was switched by a relative of the same high school Spaniard boy who sent me to the hospital and basically made my school somewhat miserable, because he was applying schizophrenic mechanisms like false accusations and unduly competition. It makes me think his notorious aggressiveness was derived from sexual assault by his family, homosexual incest, making go through extreme expressions to affirm his maleness. I think that boy would be the most affected by any success of mine and the most happy to make me go through this miserable experience. So... his father is a police Major and this was a mediocrities revenge? I did comment more than once that I suffered discrimination by the Spaniard community in that school leading to my... (satisfaction) time to study music and math by myself. Probably he knew the man I met as LU is Bi strain. But now it makes me wonder... Ledezma said he killed a man in a highway but didn't say when... so maybe he killed the real Lu is Bi strain so that the false Lu is Bi strain could take his place in a most expensive university and have his chance to apply their rags to richness method? I needed to have PI attributions to handle these messes... Obviously the experience I am going through was planned and they expected me to tie together all strings. Standard technique as commented in one of the Steren essays, that of pretending it was all a story and didn't happen in Reality, but this began under the pressure of telling whoever was leading the (nonexistent!) case that we were being confused in name and physiognomy. Then the Christian method became evident, CONFESS! But confess what if I am accusing? Chin chin, being blamed for what others are doing... so he was using a semantic mechanism the few times he spoke! (his father with facial surgery taking the place of the associate...)! Recognition... that lead was good, the person wrong, a life stalker...

Walkie talkies work because there is a bypass between the aural processing area and the transmission area. What is heard is transmitted. But aural input is mediated by conscience, most of the time. A pure walkie talkie would have this conscience processing areas weakened, damaged, transmitting aural verbal input as is, unthinkingly, so a person speaking would hear the voice that speaks, though still some processing to the message may happen, adding addressing information additional to the base signal that matches other receptors. In a non damaged brain conscience of the message would process it before the signal propagates to the transmission area through the bypass. The inner voice and other information would be added to the message. This is an empiric matter, with some cases fuzzy according to the level of attention the walkie talkie pays to unexpected aural verbal input.

Horror emotions can be considered to be on the same level as orgasmic pleasure. Both do share one physical expression: they make the body experiment shivers. Once sexuality is wasted, horror takes its place, or it can totally substitute it when inhibitions toward sex are great at a younger age. Old age, being near death, will consider horror as a form of pleasure. Note the schizophrenic mechanistic transference of pleasure–horror in the antagonism church–antichurch, or priest vs devil. BOTH pleasure and horror are associated to the devil, but none to church associates. Church members become transparent, the suffering of these emotions being attributed to the other side, both with bad consequences, which means the church doesnt experiment or considers either pleasure nor horror. It remains clean, which in essence means that church members (priests) CAN go through both without guilt as they will be blamed on somebody else. Herein lies the explanation for sadism, as the expression of sick minds in damaged brains, a substitution of pleasure for horror, ending in the attraction to gore as pleasure when, for whatever reasons (rationalizations), pleasure is sought to be turned into horror, revenge being probably the most fundamental. An utmost revenge requires death and beyond, gore, leading to the discovery of pleasure in horror and their association. Sexual inhibitions (vows) will do the rest, substituting tender sexual pleasure for brutal gore, leading to the same strong emotion.

[Considering schizophrenia a totally endogenous disease means the person s brain produces voices for its own enjoyment, but thenthose voices are teh product of the contents of that mind, a schizo in the classical sense of being divided, making some percentage of the brain to constantly speak to the rest of it. This dynamic reduces attention on the outer world, therefore reducing the input of new material to feed the content of voices. Their content will become eventually conventional, variations resulting from pure combinations of a small set of meanings. This leads to either total obsession on a single concept, pure psychosis, idee fixe, or to the disappearance of the voices, spontaneous curing, or to different forms of autism, attention deficit, the result depending on the relation between brain resources used to generate voices and brain resources used to be conscious of them.]
