

sci.electronics.basics: Re: If all 3 are single-point-grounded, why does A/C need a surge suppressor but phone & cable do not?

Re: If all 3 are single-point-grounded, why does A/C need a surge suppressor but phone & cable do not?

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.electronics.basics/2004-07/0303.html>

From: Bob Myers (nospamplease_at_address.invalid)

Date: 07/09/04

Date: Fri, 09 Jul 2004 17:50:19 GMT

"Flea Ridden" <flea@flea.ridden> wrote in message news:40EEAB78.60ABE261@flea.ridden...

> Why don't all manufacturers sell models like the Intermatic PanelGuard IG1300-2T-1C which protects phone > and cable inputs too?

The answer to just about ANY question that starts off along the lines of "why doesn't someone sell...?" or "why doesn't everyone make...?" is almost always some combination of cost and market demand.

Bob M.

Re: If all 3 are single-point-grounded, why does A/C need a surge suppressor but phone & cable do not?