

Re: why aren't electronics schematics trade secrets?

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.electronics.basics/2004-12/0725.html>

From: Rich Grise (rich_at_example.net)

Date: 12/10/04

Date: Fri, 10 Dec 2004 20:34:04 GMT

On Fri, 03 Dec 2004 00:52:13 +0800, Dan Jacobson wrote:

> Just curious why electronics schematics aren't closely guarded trade > secrets. Is it because the hard part is making the parts, not > stringing them together?

They are. It's just that you never see them. If they published them, they wouldn't really be secret, now, would they?

Cheers!

Rich