I am very sorry but I did not make my intentions clear. I am looking for low price shutoff switches for a personal project that I am working on where nobody's safety is actually in danger. These "emergency" stop buttons, and I use the term loosely, could shut off a set of model trains when a person is not near enough to the throttles after a derailment. A very easy shutoff system to add and would be very useful if I could get the some large red buttons that would be easy to hit immediately.

Thanks!
