

Re: Best way to label small project boxes ?

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.electronics.basics/2005-01/1260.html>

From: Bob Masta (NoSpam_at_daqarta.com)

Date: 01/19/05

Date: Wed, 19 Jan 2005 13:44:50 GMT

On Tue, 18 Jan 2005 09:56:07 -0800, Peter Bennett <peterbb@nowhere.invalid> wrote:

>On Tue, 18 Jan 2005 13:20:55 GMT, NoSpam@daqarta.com (Bob Masta)

>wrote:

>

>

>>*The best combination of looks and ease of use that >>I've seen is clear laser-printer film with a sticky backing.
>>I haven't used this myself, but a buddy makes a lot >>of custom research equipment for the local university >>using this method for his front panels. The results >>are very professional looking. The only downside is >>that the toner is not scratch-proof, so the index lines >>around pots, etc, eventually get scratched by fingernails.*

>

>I've done that, but I print a mirror image of the legend, then glue it >on the panel toner-side-down to protect the toner.

>

Great idea! What kind of glue did you use?

Thanks!

Bob Masta
dqatechATdaqartaDOTcom

D A Q A R T A
Data AcQuisition And Real-Time Analysis
www.daqarta.com