

Re: Electronic parts

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.electronics.basics/2006-05/msg00006.html>

- From: "Michael A. Terrell" <mike.terrell@xxxxxxxxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Mon, 01 May 2006 13:03:47 GMT
-

cznative wrote:

I'm in Austin, Texas. As for listing some of the instruments, I can't as I have no idea what they are. I'm a girl, what can I say. I will take digital photos of them today. I would assume they would say somewhere on them what they are.

There are some regular posters on other electronics newsgroups in your area. One is John Fields at Austin Instruments. You might contact him and see if he can help you, or recommend someone else, like a local ham radio club. A hamfest is a good place to sell off old electronics, if there is too much stuff to sort and inventory.

As far as the comment about asbestos, very little was used in electronics, and mostly in the early tube radio days where it was used to keep from burning the wood cabinets.

—
Service to my country? Been there, Done that, and I've got my DD214 to prove it.
Member of DAV #85.

Michael A. Terrell
Central Florida
.