

Re: Sizing a capacitor?

Source: <http://sci.tech-archive.net/Archive/sci.electronics.basics/2007-10/msg01233.html>

- From: John Popelish <jpopelish@xxxxxxxx>
 - Date: Tue, 30 Oct 2007 22:11:27 -0500
-

HapticZ wrote:

so i have to manually move my default cursor all the way to the bottom of the msg and then start typing? that will just wear me right out!

or should i set the option to "not include original message"?

You are supposed to review the quoted text and clip out any parts that is not needed to remind others what you are replying to, before you post. It is customary to add in (snip) or < (scissors symbol) if you clip the last poster.

Then, you either insert your words directly below lines that you are reacting to, or post your entire message at the bottom. This is the standard for Usenet and just good manners. Remember, this is not an email reply to one person who knows what they have already said, but an archived post that is part of a conversation presented to the entire world, for anyone to join in. Normal capitalization, spelling and punctuation are also appreciated. It is hard enough to interpret many posts, without also having to decode slang and abbreviations. This is not a cell phone text message.

You are certainly free to do whatever you like, but if you can't be bothered to think about the effort it takes others to understand what you write, don't be surprised if many kill file you and never see anything else you ever post.

Bye bye.

John Popelish

.